

Southfield Capital Completes Acquisition of Alpha Circuits, Inc.

September 30, 2008

Greenwich, CT - Southfield Capital Advisors, a private investment firm focused on the lower middle-market, announced today that its portfolio company, TS3 Technology, Inc., has completed the acquisition of Alpha Circuits, Inc., a leading tier 2 EMS provider for the energy services, industrial, security, medical, defense and telecommunications industries.

Founded in 1984, Alpha Circuits focuses on high-mix / low-volume manufacturing of printed circuit board assemblies and systems. The company provides a one-stop solution, offering engineering, product design, manufacturing, assembly, and testing services to its OEM customer base. The company operates a 60,000 square foot facility located in Stafford, TX.

David Brunson, Operating Partner of Southfield Capital, commented on the transaction, "Both Southfield and TS3 are pleased to announce the addition of Alpha Circuits to the EMS platform. Alpha Circuits has developed an excellent reputation and strategic position in the Texas market by providing high quality, customized solutions and excellent service to its customers. Moreover, the acquisition of Alpha Circuits allows TS3 to further expand into the energy and other markets that we currently serve, as well as to expand our geographic reach."
